Start by using a ruler to measure up the box that you are copying your drawing into

Begin to draw in the basic shapes of your image, using the lines of the grid as guides for position and proportion

You can give your boxes numbers or letters if it helps you to check what should be in each box for accuracy
Continue to look really closely at the image you are copying, and draw exactly the same as what is in each box

Start to add in some basic tonal values to your drawing. You could start with the darkest areas of tone

Continue to add tone to your drawing, and once you feel your values are almost correct, you can alternate between hard and soft pencils for shading and detail.

To help you with adding tone. try to apply it in the same direction as the curves in your objects.
